The Atlanta Tribune Co.Athens, September 30.—Another
military revolt occurred at Athens
this morning.Democratic guards as well as communist and royalist bands, attacked government troops. There was much fire and 100 dead and wounded are reported.It appears that following persistent rumors that the democratic guard was making preparations to establish another dictatorship or royal court and following instructions of the Communist Party, General Cots this morning ordered the invention of the barracks and two battalions of democratic guards. They called

FROM DROWNING
BY ATLANTA MANMiss Frances Jones, of 1454
Beecher street, narrowly escaped death by drowning yesterday afternoon in Madox swimming pool, on Bankhead avenue, according to reports. Miss Jones was rescued by J.
C. Gates, of 729 Azalea street, West End, after she had gone down for the second time.According to a statement by members of her family, Miss Jones was overcome by strangulation while swimming. She cried for help as she went down the first time, and Mr.
Gates, who was swimming nearby, responded.Miss Jones, in frantic desperation,
struck out wildly and hit Gates in the
face, forcing him to turn loose, according to reports. Diving for her again,
Gates managed to bring her to the
shore and safety, and she soon
was revived by a physician who was

Disarmament Commission of League of Nations Receives New Proposal.

REGIONAL PACTS FIRST FAVORED

French Delegate Cites Rejection by Certain Powers of Principle of Obligatory Arbitration.

BY HENRY WOOD.

Geneva, September 9.—A proposal calling for a world-wide protocol to avert war has been presented to the disarmament commission of the League of Nations.

M. Markovitch, of Serbia, demanded Thursday that with Germany's entrance into the league the commission consider the entire question of Pacific settlement of disputes in an effort to draft a pact of such far-reaching consequence that it would have the effect of being a world-wide protocol against war.Paul Boncour, of France, thought it better to confine their efforts to regional pacts, citing the rejection by certain powers in Geneva of the principle of obligatory arbitration.In this connection Foreign Minister Count Molteke, of Denmark, said that in conformity with the league's uremember to negotiate compulsory arbitration treaties, his country already had concluded such treaties with the Scandinavian countries, Poland Germany and France. He said Denmark hoped to conclude similar treaties with other nations.This discussion was carried on while the German delegation was being followed by other diplomats.Headed by Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, the delegation arrived from Berlin to take its place Friday in the league and the league council.The spirit of internationalism dominated the assembly meeting. Viscount Cecil said it should be the league's aspiration to concentrate the world's international activities in Geneva."But the league should not venture beyond international tasks," he said,
"and thereby infringe unnecessarily on national sovereignty. There is no contradiction between patriotism and the league."Sir George Foster, of Canada, told the delegates that the United States was "with us through the sympathetic attitude of millions and millions of men of our family." Miss Jones was overcome by strangulation while
swimming. She cried for help as she
went down the first time, and Mr.
Gates, who was swimming nearby, responded.Miss Jones, in frantic desperation,
struck out wildly and hit Gates in the
face, forcing him to turn loose, according to reports. Diving for her again,
Gates managed to bring her to the
shore and safety, and she soon
was revived by a physician who was at the pool."In seven years," he continued,
"the league has become the most valued institution in international life."BUCKNER TO CALL 75 FOR TESTIMONY
ABOUT DAUGHERTYGovernment's Case Is Prepared To Meet Onslaughts of Impressive Assemblage of Lawyers.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER.

New York, September 9.—When the government finally decided to proceed against Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller it prepared a case designed to meet the onslaught of the most impressive assemblage of defense lawyers that could be hired.

This apparently explains the fact that Federal District Attorney Emory E. Buckner plans to subpoena at least 75 witnesses to testify against the former attorney general and the former alien property custodian, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in the return of about $7,000,000 realized from the sale of American Metals company stock, seized early in the war.

Buckner apparently is prepared to trace the history of every scrap of paper connected with the case and the movement of the half-dozen or more men concerned from the time Richard M. Germain, German metal millionaire, came to this country until the time he consummated his object and obtained a check for $6,500,000, which Miller is alleged to have brought in his pocket from Washington to New York.

The trial resumes Friday with Merton, who was first indicted and later guaranteed immunity if he appeared as a government witness, on the stand. Merton told Wednesday how he had come to America to arrange return of the proceeds and of meeting the late John T. King, the late Jesse Smith and the defendant, Miller.

"Champagne Dinner."

It may be Monday or later before Merton comes to that high spot in his testimony where, according to

by real sailors in uniform who will go through all the intricate naval drills used at Annapolis, Norfolk and other naval points will be found on the lakes at Piedmont park as a part of the new course, it was stated. Commander J. J. and his staff will locate headquarters for the corps in the Swan building on the Tech campus.Freshmen only will be enrolled and the course will cover seamanship, navigation and gunnery. The seaman ship course will be implemented by drill in navy boats under sail and oars
and boat-handling will also be done and will be launched on Lake at Piedmont park.The course will continue through four years of undergraduate work.
There are 60 men there enrolled in the Tech and a considerable number designed to interview among Atlanta
boys as possible in regard to tak-

One of the features of the races for other state house offices was the close race between Calvin W. Parker, of Waycross, and George W. Lankford, of Lyons, for a place on the new public service commission to succeed James D. Price. The Associated Press figures show Parker 120 unit votes to 72 for Lankford.

Judge James K. Hines, of the supreme court, opposed for reelection by Judge R. Eve, of Tifton, was leading his opponent by a unit vote of 236 to 52, according to the Associated Press partial returns.

These partial returns showed the following figures in the unit vote in other races for state house offices:

For Attorney General: George M. Napier 252; J. Herman Milner 24.

For Court of Appeals: Judge Alex W. Steppenwol, for nomination, 226 unit votes; 76 for opponent, Judge J. P. Highsmith, of Waycross.

For Pension Commissioner: Colonel John W. Clark, for renomination, led his opponent, W. Sam Askew by a vote of 248 to 44.

For State Superintendent of Schools:

For State Superintendent of Schools:

For State Superintendent, led N. H. Ballard, former superintendent, by a vote of 236 to 70.

Albert J. Woodruff, of DeKalb, led by an overwhelming figure his opponent, W. R. Fries, of Douglas, for the long term on the public service commission. Woodruff's unit vote was 308 to 16 for his opponent.

Name of Opposition.

State house officers renominated without opposition were: General William A. Wright, state comptroller; W. J. Speer, state treasurer; E. L. Rainey, state prison commissioner; Hal M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor; Judge O. H. P. Bloodworth, for the court of appeals; Judge H. Warner Hill, for the supreme court, and S. G. McDaniel, for secretary of state.

Hardman's Statement.

Dr. Hardman Thursday issued the following statement on the election:

"To the People of Georgia, first to extend my profound thanks to the people of Georgia for the vote of confidence given me in Wednesday's primary. I am fully aware of the fact that this is not a personal triumph, but rather a triumph for the principles for which I have stood in this campaign and to which I consecrate the remainder of my public life.

"The issue is simple, and fortunately with the lines drawn between only two candidates in the primary run-off, the election will bring no complication in the views of those who stand with me in the effort to redeem the state to the people and to wrest it from the control of petty machine politicians."

"Up to this time with four candidates in the contest there were outspoken efforts to further domination of this state by the methods of machine politics.

"Under the primary rules the contest has now narrowed down specifically between Mr. Holder, my adversary, and myself.

"I have had no political ambition to serve. I want no office other than that for which I am a candidate and to which I will be overwhelmingly elected in the run-off primary of October 6. I promise to consecrate the remainder of my public life to the service of the people of Georgia by giving them an honest, fearless and business-like administration of the public affairs of the state.

No Political Obligations.

"I have made no promises and will not make any other than my solemn pledge to the people to rid this state of machine politics and to give them a clean, businesslike administration of the public affairs of the state. I will not use this office as a stepping stone for political ambition.

"After I have served the people of this state as governor I am willing to enjoy the retirement earned by a life devoted to the welfare of my state and in which no man has ever attacked my personal character or my business integrity.

"I have a strong feeling of ill will against those who have voted against me.

"I am necessarily fatigued from the arduous efforts of the past few months. I shall take a few days rest and then go back into this fight, meeting all the difficulties can be met, and the run-off primary and emphasizing as best I know how the crisis that now confronts the people of Georgia and the solution of which rests entirely in their hands.

(Signed) "L. G. HARDMAN."

Holder's Statement.

Mr. Holder issued the following statement:

"I desire to return heartfelt thanks to my loyal friends and supporters throughout the state for the wonderful loyalty to me during the primaries, and I am very glad to state that according to present reports received at my headquarters, I am leading both in the popular vote and in the county unit vote.

"My only knowledge of the handicap under which I have suffered in the first primary, when three candidates have centered their fire upon me, and my supporters are to be commended for the showing they have made.

"After the vote was considered to-day, the Hamilton manager, Mr. J. Hamilton of Richmond county, will present our plans for the future prosecution of our fight against the attempt to mortgage the future of our state.

TWO NEW FACES SEEN IN CONGRESS

for Claude J. Porter, and 4,657 for W. W. Mundy.

Congressman Charles H. Brand in the eighth district; Thomas W. Bell in the ninth, and Charles G. Edwards in the first, were renominated.

The Georgia democrats approved Senator Walter George's world court stand and approved his record on farm legislation by giving him an overwhelming county unit vote against Chief Justice R. B. Russell. Russell made the senator's vote for the world court his chief plank although he also voted for the bill. The farm legislation record: Senator George had 242 unit votes—votes in the state convention under the county unit system in Georgia, whereby the popular votes does not figure in such races except within the county—to 32 for Judge Russell.

Rev. W. D. Upshaw, veteran Atlanta Congregationalist, was unopposed by Leslie J. Steele. In this instance though, Steele's popular vote was 993 more than that of Mr. Upshaw.

In the seventh district Representative Gordon Lee did not offer for re-nomination and Malcolm Tarver was nominated by a vote of 8,642 to 7,688.

Moore, a member of the Fulton commission, was nominated to the judgeship of Fulton superior court to fill the term of Judge W. D. Ellis, whose term expires at the close of the ensuing year. Mr. Moore was unopposed.

Frank A. Hooper, Jr., a member of the Fulton county delegation in the legislature was unopposed for reelection as was Luther Still, prominent in Atlanta labor circles who was nominated to fill the expired term of J. O. Wood as representative.

NURSERYMEN NAME FRAZIER PRESIDENT

John Frazier, Jr., of Huntsville, Ala., former vice president of the Southern Nurserymen's association, was elected president of the organization.

and W. G. Daniels of Pomona, N. C. selected secretary and treasurer. The 1927 convention will be held in Jacksonville, Fla., it was announced at the closing session Thursday.

The first session will open up with talks and round-table discussions on various subjects of interest to nurserymen over the southern states. Those taking part in the speaking program were E. T. Moerner, of Newark, N. J.; C. E. Durst, managing editor of the American Fruit Grower magazine; W. H. Howard, of Hickory, N. C., and Otto Katzenstein, of Atlanta.

Reports from delegates regarding business conditions in various sections of the southern states were ready and every report was optimistic concerning prospects for the remainder of the year, it was stated by officials.

Following the business session in the early afternoon the delegates adjourned and attended the Atlanta-New Orleans baseball game at Spiller field.

HOUGHTON SPEAKS AT WOMEN'S LEAGUE MEETING SUNDAY

Dr. Will H. Houghton, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, will address the Business Women's league of the South at its annual meeting, afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in the main auditorium of the church.

"Making the Most of Life" will be the subject of the address, according to Mrs. Frederic J. Paxton, president of the league. All members and friends are invited, and a musical program will be an added feature of the gathering.

POSTMASTER FACES EMBEZZLEMENT TRIAL

Luther A. Jenkins, former postmaster of Crumps Park, has been arrested on charges of embezzlement of $280 of government funds, according to a telegraphic advice reaching Joe Johnston, chief of inspectors of the Post Office department, Thursday.

The arrest was made by Inspector Madsen. Jenkins made bond for his appearance.

WOMEN VOTERS INVITE CANDIDATES TO SPEAK

Candidates for mayor, alderman and recorder have been extended an invitation by the Atlanta League of Women Voters to address that organization at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at a luncheon at Rich's tea room.

Mrs. R. L. Turman, president of the league, announced Thursday that the candidates for councilmanic post will be invited by the different ward leagues to speak in their various wards if it will be extremely difficult to have them meet at a general rally of the league members.

Candidates for the board of education, however, will be invited to speak on September 17 at the chamber of commerce. Although the board members are voted upon by ward, a general rally is being planned, Mrs. Turman said.

"The league is now concentrating its efforts on the 'Get Out the Vote Campaign' in which many different civic organizations are taking a part. It is hoped to increase greatly the percentage of those voting over the city primary of 1924. At that time 54 per cent of those registered voted," Mrs. Turman added.

SUTTON WILL SPEAK TO SERVICE BODY OF LOCAL CHAMBER

Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta city schools, will be speaker today at the first fall luncheon of the service committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Sutton will be introduced by James A. Holloman, of The Atlanta Constitution. Henderson Hallman, chairman of the service committee, will preside.

The service committee of the chamber of commerce is the largest and one of the most important bodies working within the chamber. Its duties are to entertain distinguished visitors to Atlanta, and at its frequent luncheon meetings to draw together members of the chamber and other prominent citizens to hear discussions of public subjects.

The luncheon today will begin at 12:30 o'clock, in the assembly room of the chamber of commerce.

CHILD RUN DOWN BY CAR ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

Lotty Whitfield, 12, of 39 Jefferson street, narrowly escaped serious injury early Thursday afternoon when she was struck by a car on Peachtree street, according to police reports, which gave the name of the driver as R. C. Parlier, of 593 Simmons street.

After striking the girl, Parlier took her to Grady hospital, where attendants said she suffered minor cuts and abrasions. She was taken home by Mr. Parlier, who reported the accident to Patrolman D. B. Andrews. Witnesses told Patrolman Andrews that the accident was unavoidable, and no case was made.

RENEGADE ELEPHANT CAUGHT IN CANADA

Cranbrook, B. C., September 9.—Myrtle, a renegade elephant, was being brought out of the wilds of British Columbia Thursday, after evading capture for a month.

The huge animal was hobbled near St. Joseph creek.

In order that she might be taken through the densely-wooded country, circus employees had to cut a way through trees and under brush to the road. It is expected that the journey back to Cranbrook will take several days.

The giant beast, ill adapted to the rugged country, was in poor physical condition when taken.

There is still no trace of Charlie, the other missing elephant, he was last seen.

The capture of Myrtle was the fifth in a circus train here.

MANSFIELD HERE ON SHORT VISIT TO THEATER MEN

J. E. Mansfield, associate director of theater management of the Publix Theaters corporation and well known in theatrical circles throughout the country, is here on a brief trip through the south, where he will pay short visits to Publix theater officials.

While in Atlanta Mr. Mansfield was in conferences with Marty L. Simon, of the Foxes theater, but the manager of that establishment was unlocated.

Mr. Mansfield never passes up an opportunity to stop in Atlanta, he said while here. "I am very fond of your city and the folks and never pass anywhere near that I don't make it convenient to run by for even a short while."

Primary Results Prove Great Disappointment To President Coolidge

Executive Had Hoped That Late Returns Would Bring Senator Lenroot Success.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(By Special Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune)

Paul Smith, N. Y., Sept. 9.—President Coolidge's originally surveyed totals in the results of the primaries last Tuesday which yielded evidence of the unpopularity of some of his policies.

When he reached the executive office this morning his secretary laid before him a dispatch from Wisconsin which removed all doubt that Governor Blaine had defeated Senator Lenroot, leader of the fight for the world court in the senate and a loyal administration supporter.

The president was deeply interested in the Wisconsin contest and not until today did he give up hope that Lenroot had pulled through. Lenroot was the only republican primary candidate whom the president publicized. He praised Lenroot in his speech at the unveiling of Ericsson monument.

No White House Comment.

The president made no comment on the primary results which included not only Lenroot but the most advanced of the world court in the senate, the victory of Senator Moses, republican, of New Hampshire, leading opponent of the world court and frequently at cross purposes with the administration over Robert P. Bass, who made his bid for the nomination with the pledge that he would support the president on an amendment. In addition there were the intelligences that Senator Cameron, republican, of Arizona, who was renominated Tuesday, had retracted his support of the world court.

The only bit of complete satisfaction the president was able to get out of the primary results was the renomination of Senator Eddie, republican, of Nevada, who voted for the world court and generally supports the administration.

Coming on top of the replacement of Cummins by Brookhart, the loss of Lenroot is a serious blow to the administration for he will be replaced by another La Follette senator, increasing the insurgent republican bloc which frequently joins the democrats.

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing so much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over the country.

These sugar-coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach-upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Jacobs' drug stores, or any druggist.

BUCKNER TO CALL 75 FOR TESTIMONY

Buckner, he will tell of receiving the $6,500,000 check at "champagne dinner" at Rice-Carlton attended by Smith, King and Miller, and how he paid about $400,000, which the government says was distributed between those three men and Daugherty.

United States Senator Guy B. Goff, first assistant to Daugherty during his tenure in President Harding's cabinet, will not be called as a government witness, it is learned, although Buckner has said that Goff was the one who actually approved the claim for the American Metal company.

It is now supposed, consequently, that the defense will subpoena Goff, in a possible attempt to shift some of the responsibility to his shoulders.

Four Weeks Trial.

The trial will last at least four weeks according to current gossip, and in the meantime the Washington senator probably will have returned from Europe.

Goff appeared for several hours last winter before the federal grand jury which indicted Daugherty, Miller and King, the late republican national committee man from Connecticut.

Friday's witness, Merton, is prominent in his own country. His cross-examination is expected to show that before the war, he had interests also in Australia, England, France, Spain and Chile, and that these properties in enemy countries, confiscated in manner similar to the American Metal company, have for the most part been regained.

LEGAL BATTERY IS PRIMED.

New York, September 9.—(P)—United States District Attorney Buckner and his staff of half a dozen assistants spent today priming the legal battery which will be directed against Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Parker, former alien property custodian, when their trial is resumed tomorrow.

Testimony by Richard Merton, German metal magnate, is expected to be the high light of the session. He started his story on the witness stand yesterday as a government witness, but court was adjourned over the Jewish new year after he had been on the stand only a short time.

Dr. L. G. Hardman, left, leader in the gubernatorial primary of Wednesday, shown in conference at his Atlanta headquarters Thursday, with his farmer manager, A. S. Chambee, of Washington county, who gave up his large farming operations for three months to take charge of Dr. Hardman's campaign. He was assisted by Gordon Chapman, also of Washington county.

Merton, before he left the stand, however, had told the court, in New York with Miller, the late John F. King, once republican national committee man, and the late Jesse W. Smith, aide and confidante of Daugherty, and who committed suicide in 1923.

Mr. Buckner contends it was King and Smith who "pulled the strings" that resulted in the trial of Daugherty. Gorman, owners of $7,000,000 realized from the sale of American Metals company stock seized during the war as enemy property. Daugherty and Miller are alleged to have shared bribes totalling $441,000 for the government officials who were interested through selflessness or otherwise can out vote those who are interested for the public good we are in a position where no official is safe in doing that which is right and is encouraged to play to a small minority that takes advantage of it.

"It is best I am sure that the results are as they are but the thing that attracts me most is that the very people who believe as I do failed to back up the very principles they stand for."

"Approximately 10,000 votes were polled in Fulton county out of a registration of more than 30,000. Just so long as a small minority controls in matters of government, just so long will there be corruption."

"The vote was exceedingly light and the great mass of the people in whose interest we carried the battle failed to stand by us as we fought for their rights."

"It is best I am sure that the results are as they are but the thing that attracts me most is that the very people who believe as I do failed to back up the very principles they stand for."

"Managers and clerks were out among the voters electing for their candidates."

"Tickets were distributed and carried over the surrounding territories and marked before the polls were opened. Money was used with more liberality than has been known in any election."

"Slanders were peddled without regard to their source or the effect they would have upon respectable candidates and their families."

Congratulates Victor.

"Public officials who wield their power in the face of this aggressive political minority are deserted at the polls and one cannot expect the man who prefers political prestige to buck it."

"The primary election just closed was one of the most irregular I have ever seen."

upon my work for prohibition. The very reverse is true.

"With head erect and tail over the dashboard, I am trotting down the highway to greater national opportunity to serve the sacred cause of prohibition."

Major Sims, who ran third in the race, Thursday issued a formal statement in which he scored the system of electing candidates by minority vote. He drew attention to the fact that a poll of Fulton as compared to the entire population of Georgia, and charged that money was used more plentifully in the race than ever before.

He also declared that gross irregularities existed at the polls; that managers and clerks electioneered for candidates; that tickets were taken from the ballot box and sold for five dollars, and that "slanders were peddled without regard to their source or the effect they would have upon respectable candidates and their families."

Steele Grateful.

Mr. Steele said: "My heart is full of gratitude to voters of the fifth district, for the honor they have showered upon me, and in expressness my gratitude, shall endeavor to demonstrate it by my works when I am seated in the national assembly."

"While he has promised to do nothing I hope he will secure some aid for the farmers and the agricultural interest in the next congress."

"I have no ill feeling against anyone who has supported me, and I hope for those who supported me."

"I am leaving today for a two or three days' trip and may have something more to say upon my return."

TALMADGE GIVEN OVATION AT HOME

McRae, Ga., September 9.—(P)—A royal welcome was given to Eugene Telfair's successful candidate for commissioner of agriculture, who arrived in McRae this afternoon from Atlanta.

All business houses closed in order to take part in welcoming the county's "first citizen."

He and his family are staunch members of the First Baptist church of McRae, and have always taken an active interest in church work.

Being a lawyer of no mean ability and also a successful farmer, fish fry and picnic for the occasion after Mr. Talmadge had greeted his friends here, a large number of whom went with him to Scotland.

Mr. Talmadge owns a 2,000-acre farm five miles below McRae and operates a 20-horse farm and is one of the county's most progressive and successful farmers. He moved to this section about 25 years ago from Monroe county and was married to Mrs. Peterson, of Montgomery county, moving to this county about 15 years ago. They have two children, two boys, John A. and Herman, and two daughters, Vera and Margaret.

He and his family are staunch members of the First Baptist church of McRae, and have always taken an active interest in church work.

Being a lawyer of no mean ability and also a successful farmer,

country is justly proud of the successful race he has made.

STORY OF FINDING KITCHENER'S BODY BRANDED AS FAKE

London, September 9.—(P)—The home office has issued an official statement summarizing its investigations into the alleged finding of Field Marshal Lord Kitchener's body in Norway and its return to England. The story of the whole affair as arranged and set forth by Frank Powell, British newspaper man, is declared to be absolutely without foundation.

CANNED PINK SALMON

"King of Food Fish"

"SALMON is the most important sea food canned. . . . The protein percentage makes it valuable," states this government bulletin. Canned Pink SALMON is available for shipment into any part of the world and can be enjoyed by people where fresh fish are not available. As the cooking has already been done the product can be eaten cold, as a salad, if desired. Canned Pink SALMON provides the essential food stuff—protein—at a REASONABLE COST.

For a really delicious treat, try Canned Pink SALMON piping hot in a creamed, baked or scalloped dish. Ask your nearest good grocer to send you a few cans at once. ALL GOODNESS—NO WASTE!

New Dormitory at Tech Will Be Dedicated Today With Simple Ceremonies

Trustees of School Will Accept N. E. Harris
Dormitory at Eleven O'Clock.

Dedication exercises for the N. E. Harris dormitory will be held this morning at eleven o'clock when the building, which has been turned over to school authorities, funds for the building amounting to $106,000, is a part of the subscription to the Greater Georgia Tech building fund subscribed several years ago.

More than $600,000 in buildings

already have been erected on the Georgia Tech campus as a result of the million dollars subscription now being cleared through the Georgia Tech alumni office and under the direction of R. J. Thiesen, secretary.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president, will be master of ceremonies and has invited the Georgia Tech board of trustees to present. Trustees are to accept the building from Professor Bush-Brown, architect, and head of the school of architecture of Georgia Tech.

Harris to Accept.

Ex-Governor Harris, for whom the building is named and who is chairman of the board of trustees, will accept the building in behalf of the board and the school. Others repre-

MISS BESSIE KEMPTON WINS ASSEMBLY RACE

EUGENE TALMADGE,
Who was elected overwhelmingly for commissioner of agriculture, defeating the incumbent, J. J. Brown.

Miss Bessie Kempton, of Fulton county, probably will be the only woman to answer roll call in the Georgia assembly next year.

This probability became known Thursday when it was reported that four other women aspirants had met defeat, thus leaving Fulton with the only woman in the house or senate.

The young Fulton woman who Wednesday rallied up a majority over both of her opponents, James P. Gordy and Mrs. E. N. Gibbs, will be the sole representative of feminine pulchritude, unless early reports are changed and give some of the other women nominations.

Fulton also elected without opposition Lester Still and Frank Hooper, Jr., as the two other members of the legislature—a delegation which Thursday pledged to become a unit to work for the best interests of every citizen," she said.

"My race for renomination was probably the best record and my vote assures me that citizens appreciate the measures I have sponsored while representing them in the supreme legislative body of the state. I shall endeavor to improve that record and to continue the feeling of good will which has been engendered toward Fulton among other members of that body."

"I cannot hope to deserve the good things which were done for me, but I will do my best to merit their confidence and trust."

Kempton was nominated for her third consecutive term for Fulton. She defeated James P. Gordy and Mrs. E. N. Gibbs, piling up a majority over the combined vote of her opponents.

Where informed of the possibility of being the only feminine representative of the state, Miss Kempton declared, "I will do my best to represent the men and women of Fulton and the entire state in a dignified and progressive manner."

"I am deeply grateful for the vote of confidence the people of Fulton gave me in the primary and although I cannot express this adequately in words, I shall devote my very best efforts toward discharging the duties of

DRYS ARE VICTORS, ASSERTS WHEELER

Washington, September 9.—(AP)—Representative Upshaw, defeated in yesterday's Georgia democratic primaries, will do more damage to the wets outside of congress than in congress, Wayne B. Wheeler, general chairman of the Wilson delegation, said today in a statement which declared the week had seen many dry victories and only one defeat.

"In Georgia, Senator George was re-nominated, defeating Justice Russell, who voted against prohibition," he said. "In Connecticut, Upshaw lost to Leslie J. Strode, who may not be as vocal as Upshaw, but is declared to be a dry."

The vote of Georgia's congressional delegation will be as dry as ever." The defeat of Senator Lenroot in the Wisconsin republican primaries was laid to party factional differences.

by Mr. Wheeler, who also said Senator Moses, republican, in New Hampshire, was re-nominated "after making a drier statement than he had ever made concerning enforcement of the 18th amendment."

Nomination of Senator Oddie, republican, in Nevada, was described as a dry victory, in the statement. The Wisconsin congressional candidates "who stood right on prohibition were nominated," it was asserted.

PINCHING BABY AIDS IN FOILING BURGLARS' PLANS

New Lexington, Ohio, September 9. Pinching the baby to make it cry is the latest wrinkle in outwitting burglars. Awakened at midnight in her home at the home of Mrs. M. J. P. Shaw found a burly stranger carrying her with a revolver and threatening her life. She pinched the infant beside her and it responded nobly.

Counsel for Mayor S. M. Swarts, who dismissed Lange for his alleged bungling in the Mellett murder investigation, told the court that between the underworld, himself and the department and for other alleged misconduct of office, spent the day in introducing the testimony of reputed "princes" of the underworld and of police officers.

THE PRIMARY!

The voters of Georgia, in Wednesday's primary, registered an overwhelming protest against machine politics.

The tremendous majority, in both
popular and county unit votes,
given to Eugene Talmadge for commissioner of agriculture, illustrated
the fixed determination of the people to place that department back upon a strict service basis, and to put an end to political sinecures
maintained at enormous expense,
and with serious impairment of efficiency.

The sweeping defeat of Commissioner Brown, who has held together
a great army of oil and fertilizer inspectors without good reason
other than to maintain an organization of political workers touching every county, and almost every militia district, is evidence unmistakable that the people are tired of and disgusted with petty politics in service departments that should function to the economic interest
and welfare of the whole state.

The one most outstanding feature of the primary results is best illustrated by the vote in that contest.

It is refreshing as it begins a new and better day in Georgia's administrative affairs.

The overwhelming victory of Senator George was not unexpected.
It reflected the confidences of the people in his ability to continue to serve them as he has, with a record
that they have heartily endorsed.
The one issue injected into the campaign for senator—that of support of the world court—ought not in reality to have been an issue. Senator George met it frankly and fearlessly, and his sweeping victory is answer sufficient.

The records of both of Georgia's senators are the same on this, on farm relief legislation, and practically on all other matters. The overwhelming vote for Senator George therefore is an endorsement,
equally as unmistakable, of Senator Harris.

During the entire campaign The Constitution gave every candidate
a fair and square deal, without favoritism or penalties.

It opened its columns fully and freely to the statements of their respective campaign headquarters,
and to the reports of the public addresses of all contestants.

It reported the news as to speaking engagements with absolute accuracy.

Even the two candidates who deliberately and without reason made
The Constitution an issue—Commissioner of Agriculture Brown and Mr. Milner, candidate for attorney general—were given the full use of The Constitution's columns for their campaign statements.

There was no disposition to penalize them in any sense nor did we give editorial expression on their attacks, knowing that the people would give adequate answer. The fact that the two candidates who sought to make an issue of The Constitution were the two who were the most emphatically rebuked
at the polls is a delicate tribute which The Constitution gratefully acknowledges.

The people of Georgia are fully aware of our position on matters pertaining to the general economic interests of the state.

We stated frankly that the question of issuing state bonds for paved highways and for school expansion
was not an issue in the campaign
for governor, as the legislature had refused to submit constitutional amendments to that end for ratification this year.

We believe the state will come to this.

We are convinced that the determination of the people to put business men in office, and to destroy machine control, is a forerunner of a determination also to apply progressive methods in service administrations—in the building of a connected system of paved highways, and in a more coordinated system of education.

The primary results are strikingly significant when analyzed without bias.

The people voted with marked intelligence.

L. A. DOWNS PROMOTED.

The election of L. A. Downs,
president of the Central of Georgia railroad, to the presidency of the great Illinois Central system, is pleasing to Georgians because of the appreciation it demonstrates in one of the most progressive citizens of Georgia, and one who is, in a large measure, responsible for much of the industrial development in this state during the past few years. Mr.
Downs' promotion to the presidency of the Illinois Central was made possible by the election of Charles H. Markham to the chairmanship of the board of directors of that system. Mr. Markham has always been an outstanding and responsible friend of Georgia, and his frequent visits to this state have kept him in close touch with the state's agricultural and industrial progress.

Mr. Downs has taken an active interest in all the state's civic affairs and in all matters looking to the economic progress of the people.

His voice and pen have always been used for the development of the state's natural resources, and perhaps no other man has contributed more to arousing the people to a proper interest in the ceramic possibilities in the state. He has encouraged balanced agricultural production, cooperative marketing and all things looking to community prosperity, not only along the rails
of the Central of Georgia, but throughout the state.

The elevation of Mr. Downs to the presidency of the Illinois Central is deserved. The only feature that is regretful to Georgians is that it will necessitate his removal from Savannah to Chicago. However, he will continue to hold a deep interest in Georgia affairs, and will frequently visit the state.

J. J. Pelley, who will succeed Mr.
Downs as president of the Central of Georgia, will move to Savannah from Chicago. He is an experienced railroad executive, and will no doubt take the same keen interest in Georgia's material betterment that has been taken by his predecessor. He is just that kind of man.

NOW TO BUSINESS.

Now that the primary election is over, with the second primary almost a month ahead and only two candidates for one office involved, it is hoped that Georgians will turn their attention to economic matters, and dismiss politics from their minds, except as to the final contest for governor.

Georgia's cotton crop promises to be big. It will bring more than a hundred million dollars into the state in the next four months. The food and feed crops are heavier than ever before. The mills are running at full capacity. There is comparatively no unemployment.
Trade, wholesale and retail, is better than since 1920.

On the whole, Georgia is in a most prosperous condition, and we have many things to think about of more material interest than politics.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

Bride of the sun.
(A Farewell To Summer.)

Farewell, lovely Summer, fare-
well!
I know thy salutation is done;
Yet here I would have thee longer dwell.

Thou beautiful
bride of the Sun!

In the shines
of thy glory, of
And though earth
still shadows mine eyes,
I can see in the paths which thou hast trod.

Bright glimpses of Paradise.

II.

I thank thee for sunshine and shade,
For perfumes and songs and flowers,
For the things of beauty whose joy
hath been.

A dream of the passing hours,

Though it is mournful to see thee,

"O matchless Summer! depart,

Tones of thy music will linger with me.

And thy memory thrill my heart.

—CHARLES W. HUBNER.

The Perspiring Author."

"I find it a hard task to write a dedication for my new book of poems," says the sweet singer of The Whistler Courier. "It ought to be easy. Wasn't it the late Bill Nye who set a notable example in the following lines—

"Go, little booklet, go,

Bearing an honored name,

Thy everywhere that you have went.

They're glad that you have came."

From Billville Town.

Always something doing around here.

The fish are not biting, but the re-bills are.

Our venerable postmaster is having his eyes tested. It's raining, so he won't see to read all the post cards.

He'll miss less the letters, where the writing
shows through the envelope.

Justices Jones tied the marriage knot for only one couple, recently. The bride was 90 and the groom 108.

The happy couple long life and prosperity.

As is well known, we are running for office again, and recently we found a $10 bill on our doorstep. This, we consider, was meant as an inducement
from our opponents to quit the race;

but we won't quit for no $10. Try again, old feller!"

Their Meek Demands.

The man still runs for office.

But the women—they demand
there:

They're in "the seats of the mighty,"

And they're captured by barbers' chairs.

But that ain't nothin' surprisin',

Excitin' a sigh or song,

It's mighty little they're askin'

When they've owned the earth so long!"

Perhaps the reason there's so little work done after you get the office, is because you wore yourself out getting it.

Why, Indeed?

This, signed "W. H. Hubner," is credited to The Winfield Courier.

"I do not enthuse over the idea of having the heavens filled with commerce. Why should I want aviators smashing down in my back yard?"

Would I find fun in dodging pop-bottles and lunch boxes thrown out by passengers in flying craft?"

"Come on home," says The Adams Enterprise, "and do your best to recover from your vacation, and go to work and forget it!"

Summer hasn't left us far—

From down the Eastern Star!

But, with ninety days in sight,
The May fires still shine bright.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. W. W. BEADY.

ENLARGED ADENOIDS AND INCONTINENCE.

Among the conditions which physicians frequently presume responsible for bed-wetting and the correction or removal of which so often fails to correct the trouble are enlarged adenoids and tonsils in boys and girls.

Of course congenital phimosis requires surgery in any case. If this is neglected or postponed in infancy it may be done later in childhood. But in the majority of cases the trouble arises with the loss of the tone which will correct the bed-wetting habit and without an actual need of it—
that is to say, where the phimosis does not interfere with urination or with cleanliness—the result is disappointing.

In a considerable number of cases in which enlarged adenoids bodies or enlarged tonsils or both are removed with the hope of correcting a habit of bed-wetting in children over 3 years of age the result is a happy one, not only in the general improvement of the child's physical and mental vigor but in the correction of the nocturnal incontinence.

When these surgical remedies are applied to the bed-wetting, no positive results
should be expected until several weeks after the operation. Even in the most favorable circumstances a child does not cease wetting the bed until two or three weeks after the removal of the admoid obstruction or the circum-

cision.

Enlargement of the admoid body (I am trying to avoid the term "adenoids" because that conveys the suggestion of a "growth") and parents should realize that the admoid body is normal structure, a structure of the same shape throughout the body, a structure of the same character as the tonsils, having identical functions and subject to the same disease conditions as are the tonsils,
one of the most common causes of obstruction being the presence of polyps in the nasal passages, enlarged or thickened turbinate bodies (the "bouts"
or spongey bodies of the nasal clausters), overgrowth of the nasal clausters, or chronic infection, and sometimes overlooked foreign body

lodged in the nasal passage.

The presence of any such obstruction of the nose causes deficient oxidation of the blood, produces anemia,
often headache, and in most cases
causes snoring, disturbed sleep.

It is during the night that the urine is passed. The normal or voluntary control of the sphincter or peristaltic muscle of the urinary bladder is absent during sleep.

The child should have any nasal obstruction properly treated, whether by surgical or by medical or other means but the proper treatment of any such condition is by no means the only treatment; the bed-wetting habit
will require a regular treatment.

42 Georgians Declared Worth More Than Million; U. S. Has One Billionaire

Report of Government
Actuary Joseph McCoy
Shows There Are 11,000
Millionaires in U. S.

Washington, September 9.—There are now 11,000 millionaires in the United States, one out of every 10,450 Americans being able to assemble a million dollars if that were necessary.

The nation has a billionaire now, not named by Joseph S. McCoy, government actuary, who has told of the financial bluebloods in an article for the American Bankers' Association Journal.

"Latest" preliminary figures by the bureau of internal revenue indicate that for 1924, 74 individuals made returns for income tax whose net income was acknowledged to be in excess of $1,000,000," McCoy says. "This means their entire income, less all allowable deductions. The total net income of these 74 was returned at $154,852,700, an average of something over $2,000,000 each.

George Has 42 Millionaires.

"Thirty-six incomes not in excess of this amount, but not in excess of $2,000,000 numbered 13. Incomes over $2,000,000 but not over $3,000,000 were 15. There were four incomes between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000; three with incomes of $4,000,000, while three individuals returned incomes in excess of $5,000,000. These three returned a total income of $27,955,319, an average of over $9,300,000 each."

In addition to those with annual incomes in excess of a million dollars are the people who are actually worth a million dollars or more, though their income may be much less than a million. An American with $1,000,000 cash capital invested in government

SAFETY LEADERS OF SEVERAL ROADS MEET HERE TODAY

Fifty or more officials of railroads, representing every section of the southwest, will attend the mid-year meeting of the safety section of the American Railway association, which will be held today at the Hotel St. Regis, according to Robert Scott, director of insurance and safety, Atlantic Coast Line railroad, and will preside.

These men, who are devoting their entire time to accident prevention work among employees of the roads which they represent, as well as in fighting grade crossing accidents, said Mr. Scott, will devote the day to general discussion of ways and means of making travel by rail as safe as it is humanly possible.

Topics included in the program are: Preventing train and train service accidents; all-year safety campaigns, first aid and its relation to safety, reporting accidents, proper leading of logs, cooperation with civic organizations in road safety, and railroad crossing campaigns.

Among those attending the conference will be W. O. Hall, Georgia and Florida railway; F. Whittemore and F. S. Gordon, N. C. & S. L.; R. L. Williams, L. & N.; F. Yarborough, A. & T.; Robert Scott, J. W. Adams and H. L. Corbin, A. C. L.; D. H. Beatty, Southern railway; G. L. Candler, Central of Georgia; R. B. Coleman, and others.

DR. K. H. BOLAND, ATLANTA DOCTOR, DIES AT RESIDENCE

Dr. Kells Hewett Boland, 80, died Thursday afternoon at his residence, 24 Washington street, after a short illness. Dr. Boland was practicing physician in Atlanta for a number of years, and was the father of Dr. Frank Boland.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Verna Boland; his son, Dr. Frank Boland; and two grandchildren, Frank Boland, Jr., and Joseph H. Boland.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of Barclays and Bramson. The Rev. Wallace Rogers will officiate. The pallbearers will be West View cemetery pallbearers.

NEW CITY CHARTER TO BE DISCUSSED BY LEAGUE BODY

Discussion of prospects for a new charter for Atlanta will feature a meeting of the business men's council of the Atlanta League of Women Voters at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday, September 15, at the Atlanta Athletic Club, according to Edgar Neely, chairman of the luncheon committee.

The council, which has been organized for a period of approximately one year, is headed by Ivan Allen, successor to J. Carroll Payne, the first president of the organization. Neely will preside and the following speakers will be heard: Ivan Allen, who speaks on the necessity of the best men entering politics; Joe Hunter on "The Council Manager Charter for Atlanta"; and Marvin Underwood on "How to Obtain a Vote on the Proposed Charter."

Diamond-Onyx Jewelry —the newest combination.

French women are delighted with the alluring beauty of the newest combination of diamond-onyx jewelry. The brilliancy of diamonds in combination with black onyx is unusual and very smart.

In our collection of fine jewelry you will find many distinctive designs in bracelets, watches, brooches, and rings showing this newest combination of stones . . . diamonds and black onyx.

"My Life Story" Written by Rudolph Valentino

Thrill of Viewing City of His Dreams Banishes Sleep

"My first honeymoon night in London with Natacha!"

Rudolph Valentino in this installment of his fascinating life story tells of his emotions on being in London for the first time—his life dreams attained—the possessor of riches, fame and love.

He reveals his innermost secrets.

He's on his way to home to his native Italy, where he left poverty.

Don't miss this "Great Lover's" heart-to-heart story. It is as though you were talking to "the Sheik" himself. Such an intimate narrative that you feel you actually know him.

The statistics show the squeezing out of many of our war-made millionaires. By 1923 some 2,800 of these were no longer in the millionaire class.

Now, when other incomes are of comparatively small incomes. In 1914 the number of American millionaires was about 45,44 per each 1,000,000 population. In 1923 it was about 77,300 while today it is about 95,222.

George Has 42 Millionaires.

The distribution of millionaires by states in 1923 was: Alabama 26, Arizona 7, Arkansas 24, California 10, Colorado 44, Connecticut 180, Delaware 24, District of Columbia 86, Florida 51, Georgia 42, Hawaii 35, Idaho 1, Illinois 800, Indiana 85, Iowa 33, Kansas 17, Kentucky 32, Louisiana 35, Maine 30, Maryland 129, Massachusetts 610, Michigan 312, Minnesota 174, Montana 3, Nebraska 16, Nevada 1, New Hampshire 28, New Jersey 390, New Mexico 1, New York 2,800, North Carolina 63, North Dakota 10, Ohio 361, Oklahoma 33 Oregon 28, Pennsylvania 1,000, Rhode Island 1, South Carolina 19, South Dakota 1, Tennessee 29, Texas 96, Utah 6, Vermont 12, Virginia 36, Washington 21, West Virginia 52, Wisconsin 95, Wyoming 2.

INSTALLMENT VI.

It's our last night at sea. And then an incident to show that I am not apart from the world of material things.

Just as Natacha prophesied, I was severely criticized for keeping to myself.

Some sort of a shipboard entertainment was asked to dance. Mr. Alvar was asked to "do something." Both refused.

I tried to explain. That I was dead-tired—that the real reason for my trip was to gain strength—that I was sadly in need of complete rest, a certain woman was vehement in her denunciation of me.

"He owes the public so much," she cried, "that the very least he could do was to comply with such a simple little request," as she had made. But they willing accepted what money I could spare for the cause.

Why can't some people understand how tired we get? How much we need, not to be alone, to think, to store up energy? That's all I want personally.

And now—soon, soon I shall see England again. I should see it again—indeed, according to history—the Tower of London, Buckingham, Hampton court, Ascot, Leicestershire.

INSTALLMENT XL.

BY RIGHT OF PROPRIETORSHIP.

Richenda spurred herself to further effort.
"But then, yo, see, I don't! I never shall! Moreover, this absurd cave man, comic opera stuff that you indulge in merely makes you ridiculous in my eyes. You can't go on dragging me round the world forever—there must come an end of it some time. As for the bond between us—it is no marriage at all. I could have it annulled any day."

"I think not," Brett replied, dryly. "In the eyes of the law you would be the person in the wrong."

"You married me under false pretenses."

"Not at all. I was a free man, you a free woman. Whatever went before counts for nothing."

He rose to his feet, then held her eyes with his own.

"Don't you realize," he said slowly, "that there is at least one thing which you might put to my credit? I have not inflicted my presence unnecessarily upon you. Many men—"

"There's never any one so black that they can't find some one to blabber to contrast themselves against!" she cried with heightened color.

She was frightened then. She had never seen quite that look on his face before. He came close to her, put both hands on her shoulders, holding her till she was powerless in his grip.

Suddenly he drew her closer.

"Richenda," he said, "in the eyes of the law you are my wife. Don't try me too far. It wouldn't be safe."

Their glances met then in a wordless battle; his burning deep into hers, steady, a little fierce; hers bright with outraged pride, defiant above the crimson mouth that bore a sneer to cover its trembling.

That very defiance tore something of the man's control away. Suddenly he drew her closer, tilted her chin with one fierce hand till her lips were forced up to meet his own.

She swayed forward as he drew her, sobbing in sheer impotent rage for words that would scarcely come.

"You—you—O, how dared you?" The same question that she had flung at Reginald Anders had to suffice again.

Fairways had drawn a cigarette from his case and was tapping it carefully on the small table of the leafy dining room in which they stood, striking a match slowly, deliberately.

"How dared I?" He repeated her words with a cool laugh. "O, right of proprietorship, I suppose. At any rate, more right than Anders had!"

She gave an amazed gasp, opened her lips to speak, snapped them tight again as she saw the half mocking smile on his mouth, turned her back upon him, and walked away without a single word, the anger and dislike in her heart trebly increased.

Several times during the dark hours she peeped through her doorway out into the night, withdrawing her head with a sigh. Where could she go? Not to those other men across the valley; that was out of the question. Not into the game-infested darkness of the veld; that would be suicidal. At last she crept wearily into her narrow canvas bed. Tomorrow she would work this thing out. Stop with this man whose conduct towards her bore a threat! That was something which she was determined she would not do. Somehow, some time—soon—she must get away.

A month ago! Richenda stood gazing across the African hillside, wrapped in retrospect. A month ago it had been her wedding day. It seemed already years away!

She wished suddenly that she could have that sunny morning back again—to remake it, acting upon the knowledge which now was hers. What a fool she had been—a blundering, unthinking fool—wrecking her life because of a silly dream, some nightmare wrought of indignation, no doubt, as prosaic Jean Anderson had warned her, and the chance resemblance of a smudgy photograph in a London newspaper!

Romance, sentiment, she had given them free rein; blinded herself against the danger of them; gone to meet Love with greedy hands, clutched it to her till it turned to the ashes of dislike and distrust under her very fingers.

And now—she hated Brett Fairways. She told herself this a dozen times a day—hated him for that silent, narrow-eyed watch he kept upon her, for the subtle threat he had offered her—"Don't try me too far—it wouldn't be safe"—hated him for the burning kisses he had showered on her resisting lips, for his smilingly given reason, "Right of proprietorship; at any rate, more than Anders had"—hated him, too, for something he had said a while later—"I'll give you another month to learn to see things at their proper value. And then—" He had broken off into silence at that; a silence more eloquent than words, had turned on his heel, leaving her alone to complete the sentence in whatever way she wished, and Richenda, standing with a patch of scarlet burning on each cheek, had left her hate of him grow stronger than ever.

They were encamped in thickly wooded country now, and the girl, as before, had no knowledge of her whereabouts. Once she had put furtive questions regarding the position of the nearest township to Jerooge, the native boy.

"It is three hours westward, menisahib," he had told her. "Tomorrow the bwana sends me there to buy tea and flour."

Only a few miles away! That would be easy, she reflected, with money at her command, to board the train once she reached it. But without money, train and township might as well be a million miles away. Her determined young lips came together in a tight line then. She would suffer the humiliating position of being this man's prisoner not one moment longer than was necessary.

"Another month—and then—" His words came back to her. Well, somehow or other, the end of that month must find her free.

Apart from the delight of escaping from her present position, it would be fun to outwit this man who spoke as if he were omnipotent. She wished she might see his face when he discovered she had gone beyond recall. She'd love to be somewhere within his sight, yet out of his reach, to send scathing words across to him—to mock at him.

During her afternoon siesta of the sixth day in camp she was roused by a clamor of excited tongues. Presently Fairways' deeper tones came, then patter of bare feet, the sound of his heavier footsteps striding into distance, and quietness was on the camp again.

Richenda lay fully wondering what had been the cause of this commotion, what had taken him away so suddenly. Presently she slipped into her dressing gown and popped a rumpled dark head into the blazing heat outside. Already a quarter of a mile away she could see Fairways speeding towards a distant valley, some five hide-hung natives keeping pace with him, two of his own white kumzied boys accompanying the crowd.

She wondered suddenly why he should have left her alone, with but one servant, giving no explanation for his departure—not even waiting for the usual acquiescence which he always extracted from her, the promise that she would not move from the camp.

SALE LASTS ONLY
TWO DAYS
This sale will positively end tomorrow at midnight (if the cars last that long). So come early—don't delay—the car you want is here right now.

The "Why" Of It

Here in a nutshell is the reason for this extraordinary sale. We're going to consolidate Willys-Overland activities in Atlanta. In our warehouse we recently inventoried many cars that were slightly blemished thru shipping, storage and handling, yet mechanically perfect.

Instead of bringing these cars into our new headquarters we decided to sell them to the people of Atlanta—at the astonishing prices shown here.

On most of these cars it is hard to find a blemish with a magnifying glass.

They're in the "pink" of condition—all tuned up and ready to drive away.

This sale starts at 9:00 o'clock this morning and will continue until tomorrow at midnight—(if the cars last that long).

We will not have time during this sale to demonstrate these cars, so this proposition is made—WE STAND BACK OF OUR FACTORY'S GUARANTEE.

Come Early

These cars are bound to go like "hot cakes"—they'll be snapped up in a hurry at these remarkable prices. So come early. Just the car you've always wanted is waiting here for you now. Even an hour's delay may be too late. So hurry!

It is folly to consider the purchase of any car before seeing this special offering.

It is gross folly to even think about buying a used car, when you can purchase a brand-new Overland or Willys-Knight at less than ordinary used car prices.

LIBERAL TERMS—An unusually fair and square time payment plan.

YOUR OLD CAR TAKEN IN TRADE—a corps of appraisers are here today and tomorrow for this special purpose.

COME—by all means see these wonderful cars—this is an opportunity of a lifetime you simply can't afford to miss.

American Players Take Lead in Battle for Davis Cup

Tilden and Johnson Turn Back France's Entries in Singles

Only One More Match Needed By Americans to Win World Championship For Seventh Successive Year—Doubles Play Today.

By FRANK GETTY.

Germantown Cricket Club, Mannheim, Pa., September 9.—“Big Bill” Tilden and “Little Bill” Johnston once more have proved that they are masters of any pair of tennis players who may be sent from a foreign land in quest of the Davis cup.

Two big points for America’s total in the 1926 challenge round, which began Friday before 8,000 spectators, were chalked up when these stalwart defenders of the classic trophy won their matches against Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, of France.

Tilden played as never before in Davis cup competition, displaying the “Borotra Basque” in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, while Johnston had an even better time, despite the difficulties of the scores, in defeating LaCoste, 6-0, 6-1, 6-0, 6-0.

Tilden was triumphant. He had the stronger of the French players against him, and Borotra’s game at times rose to almost uninimitable flashes of brilliant tennis, but “Big Bill” was unbeatable.

None of those dictatorial tactics which made many of his dramatic matches were included in the national champion’s game Thursday. He went out from the start to win, and displayed a versatility and power which left Borotra helpless, caught him after time after time and able to seize, regretfully, the drives which hummed past him.

Sweat Pours Freely.

When “Little Bill” and LaCoste took the court for the first of their matches in a hot sun, broke through the low hanging clouds, both players were soon dripping with perspiration and panting from the exertion of their efforts.

In the first set the Frenchman, who came to the United States last February and was away with the American indoor championship, was resumed before Judge Clinton H. Givian in superior court here today.

Cox succeeded yesterday in getting into the record the testimony of Alvin C. Johnson, attorney for the Chicago Coliseum club for a bout with Harry Wills, which included before Dempsey undertook his present engagement with Gene Tunney, was resumed before Judge Clinton H. Givian in superior court here today.

Johnston’s powerful forehand drive, which the Frenchman had driven for “Little Bill’s” backhand, the Californian ran around the ball and repeatedly caught his opponent out of position with deep, sizzling drives down the sidelines.

It became apparent that LaCoste was not himself. The Frenchman went to the net but once in the first set, and then Johnson passed him so handily that he remained in the back position the rest of the set, and in 42 minutes, Johnston winning 6-0.

It was not until the third game of the second set that LaCoste woke up and began to pepper “Little Bill,” notoriously weak backhand. Johnston had to catch the net with his backhand drives, and LaCoste threatened to even matters, playing with greater confidence and shooting across some excellent half volleys.

Johnson Tired.

Johnson won the set, 6-4, but his nose too great strength was severely taxed by the long, hard struggle. Third cross-court chop placements. When it was over, and Johnson walked wearily to the clubhouse for a 10-minute rest, he tossed his racket away in disgust.

That 10-minute rest man all the difference in the world. The “Tilden” man had to catch the ball from any position, but the national champion’s heavily cut forehand strokes kept the willing Borotra skipping from one side to the other until finally Jean stopped and wrung a quantity of water from his picturesquely Alpine Chas-

One at the end of a desperate rally, in which Tilden, taking the ball and besetting the court like a colossus, had chased him back and forth across the base-line, Borotra stumbled and skidded along the slippery grass, his stomach, for all the world like Frankie Frisch sliding into second base.

For a time, in the third set, when Tilden tossed away three games, the crowd stirred uneasily, fearing that “Big Bill” might be planning one of his garrison finishes after spotting his opponent’s complete sets. But he had had other business to mind. His loose with service now and placements which Borotra could not handle, and quickly ran out the set and match.

This year’s challenge round may be decided Friday, when Vincent Richards, swatting away his opponent, will not give up selected four-set play, will be partnered in the doubles with R. Norris Williams, the captain of the American Davis cup team. They will be opposed by Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon. If the American pair wins, the Davis cup remains here, if not, the score will be two points to one in favor of the United States, and Saturday’s singles matches will decide the issue.

BIG RECEPTION IS PLANNED FOR SWIMMER

New York, September 9.—An enthusiastic reception, combining naval splendor with elaborate ceremony will greet Mrs. Clemington Corson (Mlle. Gade), the first mother to swim the English channel.

But the shouting and the playing will mean nothing to Mrs. Corson, compared to the kisses which will be showered upon her by her two children, Clemington, Jr., and Marjorie Ann, when they see her.

Several surprises await her, the presence at the pier of the children being the most notable. Friends of Mrs. Corson have obtained an apartment for her and paid a year’s rent. In the apartment has been placed $3,000 worth of furniture, donated by a New York business house.

The navy’s colors will be dominant during the welcome because Mrs. Corson is swimming instead of racing in the naval tradition.

The city’s cutter Macom will take her from the Aquitania at 11 a.m.

Escorted by eagle boats from the naval militia, she will proceed to the battery. Commander Richard Condon of the naval militia will proceed with the swimmer to the half.

The cutter Macom will turn to his Aquitania at 11 a.m.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan, runner-up to Mrs. Mallory in the national champion ship, and Mrs. George W. Wrightson, former national titleholder, all of whom are participating in the mid-state championships here, declined to commit themselves on the professional game.

“I’m too expensive,” Mrs. Mallory was quoted as saying by The Philadelphia Bulletin. “If they offered me $500,000, she said,

WET
GAS
fouled plugs

DRY

Why is it that the end cylinders are so often fouled?

A wet gas as it would appear in the manifold, is a mixture of gasoline vapor with minute globules of liquid gasoline which form a wet film at the manifold bends and enrich certain cylinders at the expense of others.

THE end cylinders of the average motor car with the average gasoline receive too rich a mixture.

It is due to wet gas. Liquid drops of gasoline separate from the mixture at every bend of the manifold and concentrate at the end cylinders. That is why the spark plugs of the end cylinders are fouled more frequently than the others. It is the visible evidence of a wet gas.

Wet gas means imperfect combustion, a loss of power, an excess of deadly carbon monoxide in the exhaust gases and free carbon in the cylinders.

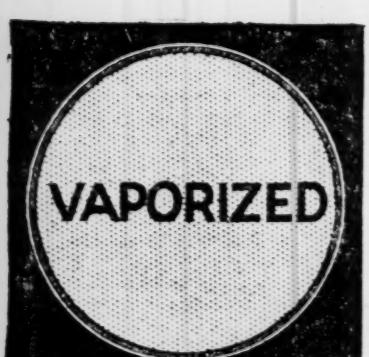

The new Texaco forms a dry gas in the manifold. It frees your motor from the evils of end-cylinder enrichment and provides an even flow of fuel and power to every cylinder. Engineers have long tried to produce this ideal gasoline. The Texas Company with its new Holmes-Manley process has succeeded.

The results:—Better combustion and more power. Maximum acceleration without flooding. A quicker start. Less crankcase dilution and no fouling of spark plugs.

Carburetor adjustment is not essential—you will get better results in any event, but still better with the lean mixture that the new and better Texaco makes possible.

And you will notice the gain in mileage, the better hill work and freedom from knocking. The new Texaco has exceptional anti-knock qualities—attained without the addition of dopes or poisons.

A dry gas, the new Texaco, vaporizes at a lower temperature than others on the market and forms a perfect dry motor fuel which distributes evenly and gives a smooth flow of power to every cylinder.

Eight Women in Ten

have discarded old hygienic methods for this new way—true protection—discards like tissue

WHEN the world started expecting more of women, the old-time "sanitary pad" had to go.

Doctors urge a new way. Millions employ it. You wear sheerest frocks without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day un-handicapped.

It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy simply by saying "KOTEX," at any drug or department store. Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

The above photograph of this beautiful chair was made at the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc., and shows an exact reproduction of the famous "Deacon's Chair," a chair that stood in front of the ancient high pulpit of the "Old First Church," in Southold, Long Island.

According to the story, the chair was occupied by a deacon, who was equipped with a long staff, or wand, and invited to speak to any listeners upon whom the two-horn sermon produced a somnolent effect.

One of these deacons, Benjamin Vail by name, was the grandfather of Mrs. Mark Norris, and she was on a visit to the ancestral town and the ancient church, discovered this old chair in the basement. It had been discarded for more up-to-date furniture.

She was allured to take it with her to her pioneer home in the then "wilds" of eastern Michigan at Epiphany, some time before 1850.

While the original "Deacon's Chair" stood in the first church of Southold, Long Island. It celebrated its 250th anniversary in 1890.

The Deacon's Chair is only one of many beautiful—and interesting—reproductions of antique pieces on display in the store of Stephen Philibosian, Inc.

Due to the firm's policy of selling only for cash, they are able to offer such distinctive furniture at amazingly low prices.—(adv.)

Orange, N. J., September 9.—(AP) Charles Edison has succeeded his father, Thomas A. Edison, as president of all of the Edison companies. The inventor has become chairman of the board of directors.

R. H. Allen, vice president of the Edison companies, said tonight that no change, while went into effect in July, has resulted in no change in policy of the companies.

"From now on," he said, "Thomas A. Edison will more and more spend his time working in his laboratory, and will relinquish more and more the administrative duties to his son."

DOLL IN STOLEN CAR.

Detectives Recover Eight Autos Believed Stolen.

Some childish heart will be gladdened by a find of Detectives E. D. Meek and E. W. Ginn in recovering eight more automobiles alleged to have been stolen by Alvin Karpis, Fred Hunter, Clegg, Billie and Jack Wingate, who are held by police on automobile theft charges.

In one of the newly recovered cars, the detectives found a handsome doll the auto thieves had not troubled to remove. Identity of the car owner may be established through the doll, detectives said. In this way, police want any old house well lit for dolls 18-inch size, disappeared in the stealing of an automobile to come to the police station and identify it.

Fifteen automobiles were recovered by detectives from the alleged hiding place of the quartet held, and the lot included seven or eight cars.

Lady Astor Suggests Woman For Presidency of America

FLAYS OPPONENTS OF PROHIBITION

New York, September 9.—(AP)—Although this is a transient time for women, it is a moment when "we are going to make the world safe for democracy," Viscountess Astor, M. P., declared tonight.

She spoke on women flappers, prohibition, American democracy, the National and New York League of Women Voters.

Upon her appearance, she said, Lady Astor's suggestion that the United States have a woman as president.

"I don't believe they will take my suggestion," she said, "but it would be amusing if they did."

Touching on the American woman's place in society, she said:

"I would like to ask why the American papers make so much of the failure of 'Ma' Ferguson as governor and so little of the success of Governor Ross of Wyoming."

She said she could not discuss intelligently the question of prohibition.

FLOOD IN WEST COSTS 6 LIVES

Chicago, September 9.—(P)—Six lives were known to have been lost and two million dollars' worth of damage had been done at Terre Haute, Ind., and Jacksonville, Ill., tonight in the third flood to sweep the central west.

The storm vented its wrath in central Illinois and east central Indiana, but dipped its currents across Iowa and northwestern Missouri.

Terre Haute, Ind., one of the heaviest hit, saw a dam burst, five railroads all but inoperative, and many industries smitten in a cloudburst which brought more than six inches of rain to the city in the most serious inundation since the disastrous flood of 1913. At Jacksonville, Ill., water, light and power plants were cut out of commission, a dam burst, in-habituants of the city were driven to the second stories of their homes, and the state hospital, containing several thousand patients, was menaced by high water.

Throughout central Illinois September rainfall approximated 11 inches in nine days, approaching rainfall records for the entire month.

The Wabash river was at flood stage at LaFayette, Ind.

The Davis Gardens, at Terre Haute, Ind., and greenhouse gardens in the world were inundated by back water of Honey creek.

A Big Four engine buried itself in mud and sand off a creek near Dudley, Ill., when rain washed out a bridge, and 14 cars followed into the stream. The engineer escaped with a broken leg and a fractured arm.

At Hannibal, Mo., where floods raged last week, a new rainfall of 3 inches put 300 houses under water.

The lightning, at a level at New Canaan, Ill., carried the body of the aged Mrs. Whitley two blocks. Thousands of motor cars were abandoned at the station at Springfield, Ill., when esix inches of rain fell.

Miss Jacksonville was the victim of an S-shape which left the city with no gas, electricity or water. A narrow creek was swollen a mile wide and dozens of homes were under water. Flood waters were subsiding near Quincy.

No Money Left, Man and Woman Commit Suicide

Washington, September 9.—(P)—Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Halsey Doyle of Brooklyn, N. Y., were found dead today in the new Wilford hotel here while friends or relatives in distant cities were beseeching the Washington police department to prevent their suicide.

Apparently having deliberately planned to die together because they had no financial means of "going on," the couple chose the hotel, only a block or so from the treasury and white house, as a scene for their deaths by poison.

It was indicated in telephone calls from Brooklyn and Providence, R. I., that Mr. Doyle had notified some one of their intention to commit suicide, for the hotel was urged in a call from Frederic Halsey in Brooklyn to locate them at once. He presumably is Mrs. Doyle's father or brother.

Negro Holdups Flee When Cops Arrive On Scene

Washington, September 9.—(P)—The American people should take nothing but a bad fight for their trouble last night when they attempted to buy out Greenleaf shoe repairer, at 301 Dearborn street, who successfully resisted the robbery.

The timely arrival of Patrolmen E. C. Robertson and J. R. Collins, who drove up in a police car without knowing that the robbery was going on, caused the three bandits to abandon all thought of getting away to their holes, while Mr. Greenleaf followed them to the sidewalk with shouts that he had been held up.

In resisting the hold-up men Mr. Greenleaf was roughly handled. He exhibited finger marks on his throat, where he had been choked and cut on the right hand. His pocket was torn off in the struggle. Before the situation became known to the officers, the three bandits had gained a considerable start, and efforts to catch them were fruitless. The trio wore mustaches, were all six feet tall and very black.
